The lobster fishermen on Monhegan Island have had a most successful season. There are 28 men engaged in the lobster fishery there and they have averaged over $223 per man.

POOR FISHING.

Salt Bankers Not Doing as Well as Last Year.

NOVA SCOTIA FLEET DID POORLY.

French Fleet Has Done Practically Nothing.

From reliable advices it is learned that the salt bank fleet, not only from this port, but from Nova Scotia and also the French fishermen, have not done as well as usual.

One of the salt bankers hailing from this port was at North Sydney, C. B., on Monday. Her captain, a well known and reliable man, writes that fish are scarce and that outside of the few which found good fishing on the Peak early in the season, the fleet has not done as well as last year. The Nova Scotia fleet has done poorly, its total catch to date not being one half what it was last season at this time. The French fleet has made almost a total failure of it, having done practically nothing.
